

Announcing the new PMCT website

In March 2023 the PMCT migrated to a new website which provides information relating to our hospitals, our junior doctors, accreditation, and more recently courses that are available (such as ALS). It also shows all the accredited terms at all the locations in Tasmania in 2023.

New National Framework for Prevocational Medical Training

The Australian Medical Council (AMC) has been reviewing the National Framework and information re this is here . The Framework will be implemented in 2024 in Tasmania for PGY1 (Interns) and in 2025 it shall move to also include PGY2+. The Term Descriptions are all being reviewed in Tasmania and by 1 January 2024 the new Term Descriptions and Framework will be ready for PGY1s. All information re the new terms will be on the PMCT website for everyone to be able to see.

This Framework is not applicable to International Medical Graduates (IMGs) but PMCT will ensure that information re accredited terms and resources for IMGs will be available on the new PMCT website.

In Tasmania, PMCT is in the process of working with our key stakeholder groups to develop and finalise the implementation plan so that it is a smooth transition.

Here is the Guide to the National Framework for Prevocational \(PGY1 and PGY2\) medical training
Here is the link to a short flyer in relation to the changes which will occur in 2024 and beyond.
